the west virginia mine war of 1920 21 a major civil insurrection of unusual brutality on both sides even by the standards of the coal fields involved thousands of union and nonunion miners state and private police militia and federal troops before it was over three west virginia counties were in open rebellion much of the state was under military rule and bombers of the u s army air corps had been dispatched against striking miners the origins of this civil war were in the draconian rule of the coal companies over the fiercely proud miners of appalachia it began in the small railroad town of matewan when mayor c c testerman and police chief sid hatfield sided with striking miners against agents of the Baldwin Felts detective agency who attempted to evict the miners from company owned housing during a street battle. Mayor Testerman, seven Baldwin Felts agents and two miners were shot to death. Hatfield became a folk hero to Appalachia but he like Testerman was to be a martyr. The next summer Baldwin Felts agents assassinated him and his best friend Ed Chambers as their wives watched on the steps of the courthouse in Welch. Accelerating the miners rebellion into open warfare, much neglected in historical accounts, Thunder in the Mountains is the only available book length account of the crisis in American industrial relations and governance that occurred during the West Virginia Mine War of 1920-21.

Land mines and their antecedents have been used on the battlefield from ancient times through the world wars to the modern conflicts in the developing world. Their use in the developing world caused tens of thousands of civilian casualties and the resulting international outrage transformed rapidly into a highly effective global movement to ban land mines and a multi-million dollar mine action business. This book describes how technology and military tactics defined land mine development and deployment, why they are such an effective weapon of war, and how an unlikely alliance of soldiers, peace activists, development workers, and celebrities succeeded in banning the use of antipersonnel mines. Comparisons are made between the post-WW2 clearance of around 100 million land mines in Europe and contemporary efforts to clear a similar number in the developing world. By 1947, Europe was largely mine free yet after nearly 20 years and expenditure of 4 billion, the land mine crisis in the developing world continues. The elusive search for the easy way to clear mines is described despite experiments with machines, airships, rats, and explosive clearance methods. Mine clearance remains a hazardous labor intensive task undertaken by teams of deminers using metal detectors and needle-like probes.

Winner of the Bancroft Prize through a gripping narrative based on massive new research, a leading historian reshapes our understanding of the Civil War. Our standard Civil War histories tell a reassuring story of the triumph in an inevitable conflict of the dynamic free labor North over the traditional slave-based South, vindicating the freedom principles built into the nation's foundations. But at the time, on the borderlands of Pennsylvania and Virginia, no one expected war, and no one knew how it would turn out. The one certainty was that any war between the states would be fought in their fields and streets. Edward L. Ayers gives us a different Civil War, built on an intimate scale. He charts the descent into war in the Great Valley, spanning Pennsylvania and Virginia, connected by strong ties of every kind, including the tendrils of slavery. The people of this borderland sought alternatives to secession and war when none remained; they took up war with startling intensity. As this book relays with a vivid immediacy, it came to their doorsteps in hunger, disease, and measureless death. Ayers's Civil War emerges from the lives of everyday people as well as those who helped shape history: John Brown and Frederick Douglass, Lincoln jackson and lee his story ends with the valley ravaged lincoln s support fragmenting and confederate forces massing for a battle at gettysburg
